For local and international students who are thinking of studying in the Philippines and in California United States of America, a great way to begin your journey is through an International Transfer Pathway Program. The program allows students to earn a degree via a twinning program in two universities; the (1) University of Perpetual Help System Laguna (UPHSL), a premier university in the Philippines and (2) Sonoma State University (SSU), one of the campuses of California State University located in Sonoma, California, United States of America.

As part of UPHSL's commitment to curricular diversity and to build opportunities for students to achieve pathways to a baccalaureate degree, University of Perpetual Help System Laguna has authorized Shengwei Education Consulting Services Corporation as its exclusive partner to recruit Chinese students for a guaranteed admission track.
